Teenage kicks

SHE might not be biggest, but you wouldn't want to pick on 16-year-old Chloe Lydon.

The teenager is top of the chops at the sport of karate after winning a silver medal at the British International Open championships.

The College of Haringey, Enfield and North London student took silver for the second successive year in the competition, which was held in Sheffield.

Chloe trains five days a week at the college's Martial Arts Academy while she is studying for a diploma in sport and exercise science.

Chloe, who is currently a brown belt, is hoping to complete her training to become a black belt by the end of the year.

"Karate is all about discipline," she said. "It helps you to balance things out and focus, which can help with exams and college work."

"I also love the fitness side of it. It's also something different, but you still have to work just as hard as in any other sport. It's also a good way to relieve stress."

"Karate will be a new sport at the 2020 Olympics and the Martial Arts Academy has been really good in helping me to train as a full-time athlete and building up my fitness to give me a chance of fulfilling my dream of competing in Tokyo."

Hunt for jobs who pulled down hijab

RACE hate thugs who assaulted a woman by sneaking up behind her and yanking down the traditional Muslim headdress she was wearing are being hunted by police.

The incident happened at 10.30am on Wednesday, September 28, in High Road, Tottenham, near the College of Haringey, Enfield and North London.

One of the suspects is a white man in his late 20s or early 30s, with blond or ginger, shaved hair and stubble. He is about 5ft 6ins tall, was wearing a burgundy hooded top and was carrying a Tesco bag.

The other suspect is of Mediterranean appearance, of similar age and clean shaven, with spiky hair, and was wearing a grey hooded top.

Shot man 'critical'

A MAN is fighting for his life after a shooting in Hornsey.

The 24-year-old victim was rushed by ambulance to a north London hospital, where he remains in a "critical, but stable" condition, after being at about 11pm on Friday in High Street, Hornsey, near the junction of New River Avenue.

He has been arrested after it was discovered he was wanted on suspicion of assault for an unrelated matter. Six women, all in their 20s, have been bailed until December.

Labour's landslide

LABOUR won by a landslide in Haringey Council's St Ann's ward by-election last Thursday to retain the seat left vacant by the resignation of Peter Morton.

Noah Tucker gained 1,177 votes with Green candidate Andrew Stewart in second place with 323 votes.

WATER, WATER EVERYWHERE

Deep trouble: A fire engine pumps water away from homes in Muswell Hill Road

By Clare Casey

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

TEN people had to be evacuated by fire-fighters after a burst water main flooded their homes on Monday afternoon.

Eight homes were submerged after a water main exploded sending water cascading through people's front windows in Muswell Hill Road. The water caused the road and pavement to collapse, leaving the street in chaos.

Thames Water yesterday apologised to the victims and said it was working to repair the damaged pipe but, until then, people's water supply might be affected.

A Thames Water spokesman said: "We're really sorry for the flooding and will do all we can to support anyone whose property has been affected. We're sorry for the disruption caused by our burst pipe."

"Our priority was to support the people living in the eight homes affected by the flooding and we'll be speaking to them all again to support them through the claims process. It was our pipe and is our responsibility to put everything right."

"The majority of our customers had their water back on last night and the remaining few are back to normal this morning."

"There may be a short interruption to supplies when we finish fixing the broken pipe and reconnect it to the rest of our network, but we'll aim to do this at a time when it will be least disruptive – ideally overnight."

Residents phoned the fire brigade just after 2.30pm as water burst through windows and cascaded into basements.

Three fire crews pumped water away from properties into storm drains and used sandbags to help prevent water reaching even more homes.

A spokesman for the fire brigade said they had been called at 2.39pm and that they had finished dealing with the incident 7.07pm, adding: "The brigade has a range of equipment which can be used to help rescue people trapped by flood water, pump water away and protect properties."

s Hill Road remained closed to traffic and drivers were still being advised to avoid the area between Archway Road and Woodland Gardens.

Hospital land is sold off to make way for new school

By Clare Casey

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

A BRAND-NEW all-through free school will open in three years' time on land sold off by a hospital.

One Degree Academy, for four to 18-year olds, will move into a purpose-built site at North Middlesex University Hospital, in Sterling Way, Edmonton, when building work is completed.

The free school boasts that every pupil will leave with an offer from a top university and is one of 35 approved by the government two years ago.

A scaled-down version for reception children, aged four, opened at a temporary home in Ponders End on October 1 – but until now the academy's permanent location, where it can operate at full capacity, had remained a mystery.

Principal Aidan Sadgrove told the Advertiser: "There is a real need for schools everywhere in London, but particularly in Edmonton.

"We are a bit different, we aim very high, but we're not selective, we're open to everyone. Our goal is that, regardless of background, every child leaves One Degree with an offer letter to a Russell Group university.

"Of course, not everyone wants to go to university, but whatever they decide they will be making that decision from a position of power.

"We have just opened our new school in Ponders End, temporarily sharing with Heron Hall Academy in part of the old Middlesex University building before we move to our permanent home."

The Department for Education has "officially taken possession of the land", just off the North Circular Road, one of the most polluted roads in London.

Moving in: Plans to build One Degree Academy on part of the North Middlesex University site in Edmonton are making progress and it is scheduled to be completed in three years

A spokesman for North Middlesex Hospital confirmed that the land had been sold to the academy and stressed that no services would be adversely affected by the deal.

"The money raised will be ploughed back into hospital services and in particular will be used to invest in our academic and training centre," said the spokesman.

"We plan to create a new and modern facility that will support the study, learning and professional development of our doctors, nurses and other clinicians, making the hospital a better place to work and improving services for patients."

Subject to planning regulations, building work will begin soon.

An increase in the number of all-through schools is being driven almost exclusively by the last government's free schools programme – reforms designed to allow parents' groups, teachers and charities to set up their own state-funded school independent of local authority control.

Mr Sadgrove and other supporters of the system believe it helps younger children with positive role models and avoids a difficult transition from primary to secondary school.

ROB BOURNE

Just Grin and Bear it...

TRENT Park was transformed for the finale of the Bear Grylls Survival Race at the weekend as thousands of enthusiasts flocked to test their mettle. Ropes, monkey bars, walls, fences and weighted sacks were dotted throughout the park as part of the Survival Races and Outdoor Festival inspired by the adventures of TV star Bear Grylls – and intrepid reporter Clare Casey and her three young adventurers were in there with the best of them...

I JOINED my three pint-sized adrenaline seekers on the 1.5km course that took a loop through the trees, vaulting logs, scaling walls, ropes and ending with a water slide, splashing their way over the finish line.

They loved it, the middle one immediately wanting to join the next wave of races and “go again”.

As well as the races – for which they were all rewarded with medals, T-shirts, headbands and healthy snacks – they tried whittling a bow and arrow.

There were also people whistling through the air from the 180ft bungee jumping platform, a Royal Marine climbing wall and loads of stalls with everything from face painting to trailer tents.

Leaving them laughing at people stumbling through an “Arctic pit of ice”, I set off on the 5km Survival Race.

The first half was beautiful. The sun was shining down as we raced through the fields in Trent Park, scaling the occasional “wall” and climbing ropes – something I’ve not done since junior school.

Next was carrying rucksacks with 20 kilos up a hill.

It was getting harder.

As well as the intrepid runners – many of them streaked with “war paint” there were Bear Grylls’ “survival academy instructors” at every obstacle.

Taut, ripped and angry, they yelled at us.

They told us that it was the “mountain zone” that would separate the weak from the strong – a 15-metre-high and 32-metre-long “mountain” cobbled together with scaffolding and ropes – and they were right.

We set off in groups of five, with the rope wobbling furiously as we all tried our hardest to pull ourselves over.

Then with my hands stinging and legs like jelly, I was given a tiny piece of cotton wool.

“Fluff it out, it lights better!”

Firelighting. Who would have thought it?

Next up I had to eat a kids mealworm – “You’re joking?” I blurted out.

“Come on soldier, or give me ten burpees,” came the answer.

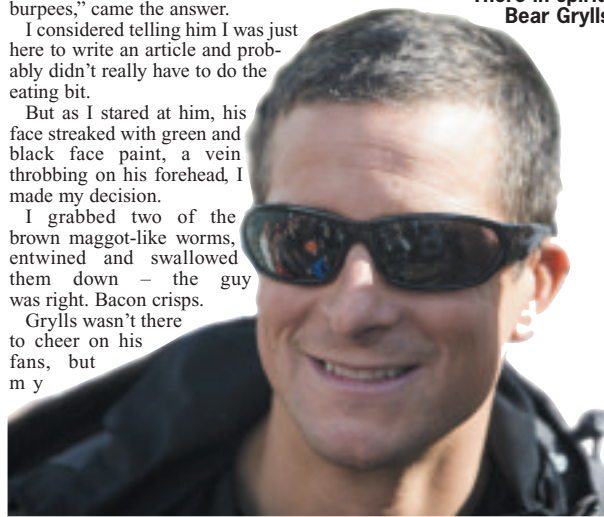

I considered telling him I was just here to write an article and probably didn’t really have to do the eating bit.

But as I stared at him, his face streaked with green and black face paint, a vein throbbing on his forehead, I made my decision.

I grabbed two of the brown maggot-like worms, entwined and swallowed them down – the guy was right. Bacon crisps.

Grylls wasn’t there to cheer on his fans, but my

If you are a denture wearer then this article may be of some interest to you!
If you can relate to any of the following questions then it is a sign your denture needs attention:
DO YOU FIND YOUR DENTURES:
• Do not fit as well on your gums as they used to?
• Are they loose?
• Do not cut food as well as they used to?
• Do they make your face look older?
• Have discoloured despite meticulous cleaning or
• Cause discomfort/pain on chewing?
If any of the above breeds familiar territory then I may be able to alleviate some of these problems for you.
My name is Caroline Persaud I am a qualified CLINICAL DENTAL TECHNICIAN. Many of you may be aware of Dental Technicians/Mechanics who repair and produce dentures for dentists, however, due to recent changes in the Dental law, a group of Dental Care Professionals known as Clinical Dental Technicians have been approved by the General Dental Council and can now see denture wearers who have no natural teeth remaining, directly without having to visit a dentist.
The advantages to you, the patients, are numerous. You can be treated by a professional who has been clinically trained to undertake the impressions of your mouth and who also has the technical skill to manufacture your denture to meet your requirements.

Packing a punch for Black History Month

By Priya Kingsley-Adam

priya.kingsley-adam@nlhnews.co.uk

BLACK History Month kicked off with a bang in Enfield on Saturday with launch of the inaugural Pineapple Punch Festival.

The community event at the Dugdale Arts Centre, in London Road, Enfield Town, showcased a variety of attractions to celebrate the contribution of black British culture and the arts.

People also joined in African yoga and martial arts sessions as well as free taster dance classes such as salsa, zumba, kizomba and bachata – a dance originally from the Dominican Republic, which focuses on lower-body movements.

There was a range of live performances featuring the Reggae Choir and Heidi Vogel, lead singer from the Cinematic Orchestra, as well as Christina Matovu, a contestant from 2015's TV music competition, The Voice.

A range of traditional African and Caribbean foods were available including sweet treats such as ginger cake and Jamaican Bulla cake – made from molasses and spices.

"The main reason we held the event was to show the positive aspects of black history," said event organiser Charlene Grant.

"Some people think of black history as just being about slavery, so we wanted to remind them of the contributions black people have made through these events," she added.

In fine voice: A performance by Heidi Vogel and band

Tempting treats: Anaya Ejiofor, eight, on the sweet stall

On their toes: Glen Ford-Watson and Heather Oakley join in with one of the dance classes

Cloudy2Clear Announce Trusted Trader Partnership

ADVERTORIAL

Consumer champions Which? have now joined the thousands of customers who recognise that Cloudy2Clear Windows really are a business that you can TRUST. The company which specialises in repairing windows which are steamed up, broken or damaged by replacing the panes – not the frames has received the coveted 'Which Trusted Trader' status after going through a rigorous accreditation process entirely focussed on customer service.

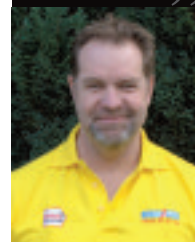

Group Managing Director Marcus McGee believes that Which? have endorsed Cloudy2Clear's long standing company policy of delivering the highest standards possible at all times. 'Our service is simple. If your double glazing has misted up we can replace the glass at a fraction of the cost of a new window, in any type of frame, and with a new 25 year guarantee. But it's not just about saving people money, although that obviously helps. Whilst a number of tradespeople perhaps don't focus on customer care as much as they should do, we make sure we turn up when we say we will, do the job the customer requires and leave their house as clean as a whistle. Locally Cloudy2Clear service the Enfield, Edmonton, Palmers Green, Winchmore Hill & Southgate areas and manager Richard Power agrees that this approach is a major factor in his success. 'The truth is that it's not just the personal satisfaction that I get from doing a good job but also it makes good business sense. I get a huge amount of business from friends and family of people I've done work for, which just goes to show how much a little bit of effort is appreciated as both my customers and, obviously a body as nationally important as Which? now recognise.'

So, if your windows are steamed up, broken or damaged give Richard a call for a free quotation on 0800 61 21 118 and he'll be happy to help!

Helen has personal interest in Trent Park museum plan

COMEDIENNE, actress and author Helen Lederer has a personal reason for backing plans for Trent Park's historic mansion to include a museum dedicated to its top secret wartime role.

A grandfather of the star – whose credits include the role of Catriona in BBC TV comedy Absolutely Fabulous – worked as a “secret listener”, covertly recording conversations of high-ranking German officers being held in the mansion, off Snakes Lane, Cockfosters.

Developers Berkeley Homes have submitted a planning application, which includes creating a permanent museum and building luxury flats, to Enfield Council.

Ms Lederer's grandfather Arnost (later known as Ernst) Lederer came to Britain on one of the last trains from Czechoslovakia as a refugee from the Nazis.

Another branch of the family was not so fortunate and perished in the Auschwitz concentration camp.

Ernst was recruited in 1944 to join the team of secret listeners – many of them, like himself, Jewish refugees.

Ms Lederer, who only learned about her grandfather's secret wartime job four years ago when filming for Channel 5 programme War Hero in My

Family, told the Advertiser: “I’m very proud and shocked and have a huge respect for what people in the past could do. I know that what Ernst was doing was very important and saved lives. Trent Park for me represents people doing stuff, getting one back without any applause. They did it without telling anybody – that’s the important thing.”

Dylan's a Belieber

By Priya Kingsley-Adam

priya.kingsley-adam@nlhnews.co.uk

AN 11-year-old boy became the envy of millions of young girls last night (Tuesday) when he performed as one of Justin Bieber's backing dancers at the opening show of the pop superstar's concerts at London's O2 Arena.

Dylan O'Mahony-Dawe, a pupil at Chace Community School, in Churchbury Lane, Enfield, appeared in front of an audience of thousands of screaming fans.

The youngster, who is a member of the Platinum Performing Arts School, based at Millfield Arts Centre, in Silver Street, Edmonton, was selected from thousands of hopeful dancers to perform with the Canadian heart-throb as part of his Purpose World Tour.

“I couldn't believe it when I found out,” said Dylan, who lives in Weardale Gardens, Enfield.

“I heard my mum screaming after she was notified by email and when she told me I was going to dance with Justin Bieber I was speechless.”

He was just feet away from Bieber as he danced with other young performers to the song Children.

“I have danced in front of 5,000 people before, but there were more than four times that figure in the audience,” said Dylan.

“It was a great experience because I want to dance when I'm older.”

Dancing has been a passion of Dylan's since he was just five years old and has always come “naturally” to him, said his mother Regan O'Mahony.

She was at the concert – and while the thousands of Beliebers were screaming their idol's name, his mum was chanting “Dylan”.

She added: “He picks up dance routines really easily. He's a very good dancer and wants to dance professionally when he's older.”

Existing and future parking pressures

We are aware of a number of parking issues in the South Edmonton area, including:

- Football supporters driving to the area on Spurs match-days, which will increase when the stadium redevelopment is complete in 2018
- Commuters driving to Silver Street station
- Non-residents parking on housing estates
- Shoppers, employees and visitors parking in the side roads around Angel Edmonton town centre
- Demand for on-street parking from new homes planned for the area

Classic opportunity

THE Classic & Sports Car Show is returning to Alexandra Palace, in Wood Green, from October 28 to 30 – and we have three pairs of tickets to give away.

The show features hundreds of the world's most prestigious classic cars and this year will celebrate supercars with a global vote to find the best ever made currently under way.

The 11 finalists will be on display in a special Century of Supercars feature with the overall winner set to be revealed at the event.

Other highlights include an auction with Coys, an icon-filled parade in the grounds of Alexandra Palace, a feature showing the restoration of a unique Jaguar XK120 by Pininfarina by Classic Motor Cars in association with Total and a Live Interview Stage presented by Goodwood Road & Racing.

Visitors can also enjoy a selection of premium food and wine while looking out on the spectacular show displays in the Fine Dining Restaurant.

A range of ticket packages, from general access to a limited number of premium tickets, are available at <http://www.classicandsportscarshow.com>

For a chance to win, answer the following question:

● What will be celebrated at this year's event:

- a) Supercars
- b) Formula One cars
- c) Hot hatchbacks

Send your answer, with your name, address and a daytime telephone number, to: Classic Car Competition, North London & Herts Newspapers, 187 Baker Street, Enfield, EN1 3JT, or send your answer, with contact details, to competitions@nlhnews.co.uk, with "Classic Cars" in the subject line, by noon on Thursday, October 20.

Bunch of winners

Feeling vine: Volunteers including John McLean and Marissa Zoppellini, below, harvest a crop of grapes

By Clare Casey

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

IT'S "bottoms up" down at the farm after Forty Hall Vineyard were crowned winners of a competition celebrating food and drink in the city.

Forty Hall Community Vineyard, in Forty Hill, Enfield, won the capital growth's growing enterprise category at the Urban Food Awards.

The public were invited to vote for their favourite suppliers before a panel of food experts unveiled the winners at Borough Market, in Southwark, south London.

Project manager Sarah Vaughan-Roberts said: "This award is a fantastic testament to all the hard work and commitment of our amazing volunteers who are helping to build our successful growing enterprise."

Forty Hall Vineyard produces London's only natural, organic English sparkling wine, made in the traditional method from high-quality Champagne variety grapes.

The 10-acre Forty Hall venture is thought to be the capital's only commercial-scale vineyard.

Not only that – it is run and managed by volunteers, creating an "inspiring community-led social enterprise".

Some of the workers have been referred by doctors convinced of the benefits of outdoor physical work on mental health and feelings of well-being.

The vineyard was planted out in 2009 in partnership with neighbouring Capel Manor College.

College principal Stephen Dowbiggin said: "I love the sparkling wine, but actually being part of this enterprise and bringing viticulture to London is what has made me happiest."

Thug punched partially sighted pensioner in face during robbery

A MAN has admitted a "callous attack" on a partially sighted pensioner whom he punched in the face during a robbery in Edmonton.

Darren Neville left the 71-year-old lying on the ground with a serious head injury after the attack in Fore Street.

The incident happened minutes after his victim had withdrawn money from a cash machine during a shopping trip on July 2.

The pensioner was turning into an alley from Fore Street heading towards Folkestone Road at about 10.20 in the morning when Neville approached him, hitting him in the face.

He fell to the ground and 43-year-old Neville made off with £400 in cash and other items.

Detective Constable Stuart Miller, from Edmonton CID, said: "This was a particularly callous attack given the age of the victim and his severely limited eyesight."

The man was taken to hospital and stayed there for three weeks after the incident.

Neville, who is from the Edmonton area, but has no fixed address, pleaded guilty to robbery at Wood Green Crown Court last Thursday.

Speaking after the hearing, DC Miller said:

Guilty: Darren Neville

"I am pleased that the overwhelming evidence against Neville left him with no option other than to plead guilty."

Neville was remanded in custody until he is sentenced on November 4.

Chickenshed Theatre

WE have fabulous news from Chickenshed this week. Our production, Kindertransport has sold out. But don't despair if you haven't got tickets – we have extended the run for a further week, so we now have performances until Saturday, October 29.

Kindertransport has been a great success and a first for Chickenshed in many ways. It is the first play I have directed for Chickenshed and it is the first time I have cast an outside performer into one of our shows.

I first met Michelle Collins when she was 18 and straight out of college. I cast her in the play I was directing at The Gate Theatre, in Notting Hill. It has been wonderful to work with her again on Kindertransport.

The play has received fantastic reviews including a four-star review from The Stage, with such wonderful quotes as “powerful, superb, astonishing”, and on Thursday we had a further four-star review from the Jewish Chronicle, who wrote that Chickenshed is “set to become a mini-theatrical powerhouse”.

I am not able to relax as we are heavily into rehearsals for our next show – Adventure to Oz, which opens on November 23. As one show finishes, the next is rapidly on its heel.

Adventure to Oz will be a dazzling show with a cast of more than 600, split into four rotas, although the core of our professional actors remains the same for each performance, and this all-singing, all-dancing, hugely spectacular production will be one not to be missed.

We are inviting our audiences to travel the famous Yellow Brick Road with our brave band of friends to meet Dorothy, the Tin Man and of course The Wizard himself.

IT'S going to be a tough call to end the many years of underfunding in Enfield. That is why we need every Advertiser reader to just lift a finger and sign up for Fairer Funding for Enfield (“Petition calls for hike in government funding”, Advertiser, October 5).

When did you last see both Labour and Conservative leaders on Enfield Council and our three cross-party MPs all battling on the same side, seeking to reverse the under-funding of council and health services by successive governments going back almost 20 years?

I'm told the funding model used by ministers to tackle our serious problems of poverty and homelessness, for example, are at least 15 years old.

Our petition is seeking to restore some justice in the way Enfield is treated by Whitehall.

By supporting it you will not just be helping Enfield residents today, but future generations of Enfield citizens whom we all want to see living in a thriving borough.

To sign on-line go to: <https://www.change.org/p/enfield-borough-over-50s-forum-fairer-funding-for-enfield>

I can see why people dump unwanted stuff

FURTHER to your article (“...as fears grow over increase in fly-tipping”, Advertiser, October 5), I booked the collection of a freezer for my father-in-law last week.

First I had to create a record for myself and because I left the town name blank the system wouldn't allow me to make a payment to World Pay.

I tried to edit my record and found that there is no facility to edit the town name and was taken to a page to add a new address.

World Pay sent a payment receipt, but there was no confirmation of my booking from the council. I later emailed the council repayment mail address given by World Pay to check if the payment had been made and my emails bounced back.

I phoned the council on Tuesday to check if the freezer would be collected and was given a specific time. A relative waited at the house all Wednesday afternoon for somebody from the council to call.

I phoned the council at the end of Wednesday afternoon and was told that the freezer should have been left in the front garden. When I said that there are no instructions for leaving items in front of the property on the bulk collection form, his reply was: “It's all on the website”.

I then phoned the council on Thursday morning (October 6). The first two operators put me on hold after I explained the problem and the lines cut out.

All three operators asked for the reference number which was on the email which my father-in-law didn't receive. All three told me: “All information is on the website” and one said I'd have to pay again.

I now understand why residents fly-tip their old beds, furniture and electrical items.

Paul Woolley
Cedar Park Road,
Enfield

□ ROBIN COWLEY (“They should try free collections”, Advertiser, October 5) makes an erroneous comparison between Enfield and Tower Hamlets with regards to fly-tipping.

Firstly, there is no evidence for his assertion that charging for bulky waste collections leads to higher fly-tipping rates. Of the 10 London boroughs with the highest levels of fly-tipping, seven offer free collection services. Indeed, since Enfield introduced charging for bulky waste collections back in April 2011 no discernible trend in increased fly-tipping has been identified as a result of that decision.

Secondly, there is no such thing as a “free” council service. Tower Hamlets will necessarily be costing its collection service into its general street cleansing budget, meaning that all taxpayers, irrespective as to whether or not they use the service, are picking up the tab through their council tax bills.

By contrast, even accounting for dealing with fly-tips, Enfield has one of the lowest costs for street cleansing services in London and has been assessed independently as being better than both the London and national NI195 standards of cleanliness.

Furthermore, last year we won the gold award in the CIWM/Keep Britain Tidy Innovations category for large local authorities.

Alas, fly-tipping is a blight across local authorities nationwide. However, residents should not deceive themselves into thinking that there is a cost neutral way of eliminating it.

Councillor Daniel Anderson
Cabinet Member for Environment

□ JUST reading Robin Cowley's letter, I agree with him – but unfortunately Enfield Council does not do anything for free.

It cannot employ an operator to answer the phones, you cannot speak to anybody on the phone and when you email it doesn't answer your email.

I am sure other London boroughs do not behave in this manner. It is such a shame. I used to enjoy living in Enfield, but I am getting very disillusioned.

Don't pretend you represent the majority

CLARE ROGERS writes that Cycle Enfield has made “significant adjustments to the routes in response to each consultation” (“Cycle Enfield has listed to the public – and the verdict is clear”, Advertiser, October 5).

Where are these “significant adjustments” for the A105? As far as I can see, the route still runs straight along the A105 where it will cause significant problems for shops and other businesses, residents, users of public transport and, more worryingly, the emergency services.

She also says she is “fed up with these objectors, saying they represent the community”, arguing that for “the 350 members of Better Streets for Enfield and others she has spoken to, they do nothing of the sort”.

Well, the 1,600 residents who wrote in to lodge their objections during the sham “statutory consultation” for the A105 would likely say the same about Clare Rogers and Better Streets for Enfield. Unless my maths has gone seriously awry, 1,600 is a lot more than 350.

To conclude, to use the phrase “on your bike” to this scheme seems particularly appropriate when you consider its meaning in English slang.

Something he forgot to say?

PERHAPS it is only natural that Tom Waterhouse attacks Joan Ryan in his letter (“Our MP is failing her constituents”, Advertiser, September 28), given the fact that he is a former Tory councillor in Enfield (2010-14), former Tory whip and one-time agent for Enfield North Conservative Association for former MP Nick de Bois.

How convenient that Mr Waterhouse fails to mention this.

FAMILY ANNOUNCEMENTS

Funeral service tribute to long-serving headteacher

By Priya Kingsley-Adam

priya.kingsley-adam
@nlhnews.co.uk

THE life of a retired headteacher who taught thousands of school-children during a 40-year career is being remembered at a funeral service today (Wednesday).

Clare Clarke, 65, who had been diagnosed with cancer a year ago, helped educate generations of pupils at schools in Enfield and Haringey, in some cases teaching two generations of the same family.

As head of Tottenham Primary School, in Tottenham Road, Palmers Green, for 20 years, she helped turn round what had been a failing school.

At the time she was appointed head, the school had been placed in special measures. When she retired three years ago, its Ofsted rating ranked it "outstanding".

Clare's daughter, Edwina Clarke, 31, said: "Teaching was her life. She was always doing something with the school and worked incredibly hard."

Clare, who lived in Ridge Crest, Enfield, with her husband of 40 years, John, received an OBE in 2013 for her services to education.

"She was completely overwhelmed and incredibly proud to receive the OBE," said Edwina. "It was the perfect end to her 40 years of teaching."

The honour not only recognised her contribution to Tottenham, but also to Eldon Primary School, in Eldon Road, Edmonton, where she served simultaneously as head, as well as to three other schools at which she held senior teaching roles.

Both her daughters – Edwina and Emma-Louise, 35 – were pupils at Eversley Primary School, in Chaseville Park Road, Oakwood, when their mother became deputy head earlier in her career.

She also taught at Stamford Hill Primary School, in Tottenham, and at Belmont Primary School, in Wood Green.

"My mum was very modest, she never complained," added Edwina. "She just got on with it and if it wasn't a challenge or something to get stuck into, then she wouldn't have wanted to do it."

Clare's life will be celebrated by family and friends at the funeral service at 12.30am at Our Lady of Mount Carmel and St George Church, in London Road, Enfield.

Her family have requested that instead of floral tributes, donations should be made to the Sarcoma UK charity.

Honoured: Clare Clarke received an OBE for her services to education

£33million boost for new homes scheme

By Julia Gregory

julia.gregory@nlhnews.co.uk

A HOUSE building programme aimed at regenerating Edmonton is getting a £33million boost.

Enfield Council won a bid for the £33.45m of Greater London Authority cash to kickstart a plan for new homes in the area known as Edmonton Futures.

It comes on the back of the £3.5billion Meridian Water development for 10,000 homes and an estimated 10,000 jobs.

The GLA has given the Edmonton Futures area housing zone status, which means it is eligible for a share of £600m available to housing projects announced across London.

The council is hoping the project will "expand the benefits of Meridian Water" and could result in 3,200 new homes being built there.

It wants the development to take wards in Edmonton out of the ten per cent most deprived in the UK.

The council's cabinet gave the green

Looking to the future: The site of the Meridian Water development light to accepting the money for the Edmonton Futures area, which borders Meridian Water, along with housing zones in Tottenham and Walthamstow.

It has started talks over the contract for the £30.25m loan, plus a £3.2m grant.

Ahmet Oykener, cabinet member for housing and housing regeneration, said: "Gaining housing zone designation for Edmonton Futures is great news because it will help to sweep away red tape and help us get the high-quality and affordable homes our residents desperately need built far more quickly than we normally would be able to."

Mr Oykener said that the money would help extend further the predicted benefits of Meridian.

"We are essentially creating a corridor of opportunity in the east of the borough which will help create high-class homes, infrastructure, jobs and opportunities for local people and help to lift the wards they live in out of deprivation," he added.

Shopping mall gives pupils chance to do the business

SCHOOLCHILDREN rose to the challenge in the competitive world of retail when they were put in charge of helping to run a shopping centre for the day.

Running The Mall Wood Green – one of the capital's biggest shopping complexes with a variety of leading high street stores – is a big operation at the best of times.

But it didn't faze 29 Year Six youngsters from Willow class at North Harringay Primary School, pictured right.

The Takeover Day was aimed at introducing youngsters to work and offered them the chance to shadow professionals and get a glimpse of what is involved in the day-to-day running of a business.

The 29 youngsters got the chance to work alongside members of the management, marketing and security teams and learn about what they do.

They were also set a marketing challenge, using their creativity to draw Christmas trees which will go on display at the shopping centre during the festive shopping season.

Isaiah Fapuro, marketing manager at The Mall Wood Green, said: "It was a great day as we were able to give children an opportunity to experience the world of work.

"We hope this will help them understand what they want to do in life when they leave school. It also gave us a chance to listen to their ideas and is a great way for us to become more involved with local schools as we pride ourselves on being part of the Haringey community."

Haringey or Enfield-based schools who wish to take part in next year's Takeover Day at The Mall Wood Green are invited to register their interest by emailing isaiah.fapuro@themall.co.uk

A Great Sight

A new range of glasses from Specsavers is specially designed to be the most comfortable yet

We all know how great it feels to find something that fits us perfectly – and that's never more important than with things we wear every day, like our glasses. With many of us relying on our glasses more and more as we get older, it's no surprise that there's a demand for specs that not only do the job, but feel great to wear, too.

In fact, when Specsavers carried out in-depth research last summer to find out what customers over the age of 65 wanted from a pair of glasses, the number-one answer was comfort and a great fit. As a result, they've developed a new range, ComFit, which puts comfort and fit at its core.

"They're the best glasses I've had so far," says Anne Cooper, 75, who recently tried a new pair of ComFit glasses. They were so comfortable!

Sometimes I didn't even realise I had them on.

The ComFit range features cushion-like gel pads, so you can wear them all day long without any irritation. A discreet silicon lining makes even a heavy bridge unnoticeable and extra soft arm tips are designed to stop glasses from irritating the delicate skin behind the ear. Flexible hinges provide improved durability, ideal for people who regularly take their glasses on and off.

A great fit and fashionable frames are a winning combination for Carol Bond, 72, as well. "I prefer the bridge of the nose, where it's rounded, because they sit more snug against the nose," she says. "And behind the ears, they sort of shoot off the ear rather than going around the ear and this is more comfortable."

The ComFit range has 40 different styles of frame to choose from – 20 for men, and 20 for women. "People do want comfort, but they also want them to look attractive," says Carol. "These are really light and comfortable – and stylish too."

What's on and what's coming

A camaraderie forged in wartime adversity

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

YOU don't need to be a military strategist to understand why the bombing raids of Hitler's Luftwaffe during World War II targeted Sheffield.

The blast furnaces and forges of the city's steel industry, which had previously churned out cutlery and church bells, were instead employed to produce armaments and Spitfire and tank parts for Britain's war effort.

Steelworkers who could operate a smelter or a drop hammer were exempt (reluctantly or not) from being called up to serve in the forces.

It's against this backdrop that the play Operation Crucible is set, with a matinee as well as an evening performance next Thursday (October 20) at artsdepot, in Nether Street, North Finchley.

During seven hours of continuous bombing on the night of December 12, 1940, 600 people died in the Sheffield Blitz.

Based upon historical research, Kieran Knowles' outstanding debut play charts the experiences and memories of four steelworkers trapped in a cellar of the city's

Showing their mettle: The steelworkers wait it out in the cellar of the hotel

Marples Hotel, which was all but reduced to rubble.

We witness their pride, courage and private fears and dreams in a taut and engaging tale of masculinity and camaraderie which vividly evokes the terror of wartime bombing and the human instinct to survive.

The matinee performance is designed to attract schools whose students are studying the period and is open to the public as well.

A heartfelt tribute – but Bowie's a tough act to follow

Review: Starman: David Bowie – A Celebration, Millfield Theatre, October 9

TRIBUTE shows are never easy, especially when the subject is a bona fide colossus.

To be fair, frontman Mike King – who bore a passing resemblance but actually looked rather more like Bowie's glam rock contemporary Bryan Ferry – acknowledged this much early on, going only so far as to describe himself as "possibly a little Bowie-esque", but comparisons were inevitable, especially given that a montage of pictures of the great man himself served as a backdrop.

King and his five-piece band succeeded best when they used the strength of the material to inspire them, as opposed to struggling with the impossible burden of representing a musical legend.

Life on Mars, Space Oddity and Ziggy Stardust soared as King showcased his impressive vocals and showmanship to good effect. By contrast, Suffragette City and Ashes To Ashes fell a little flat as the band struggled to fill the space on offer – perhaps a more intimate venue would suit them better.

However, given that Bowie's death at the start of this year has robbed us of his genius for good, it's laudable that King and co are keeping his songs alive and unfair to saddle these acts with too much expectation. And given the rapturous reception they received, they're on to a winner.

Dante's divine comedy of errors

INFERNO (12A, 121 mins)

IT'S been 10 years since Tom Hanks squandered his Oscar-calibre talent as the ingenious hero of The Da Vinci Code.

The 2009 sequel, Angels & Demons, was hellish rather than heavenly and now leading man Hanks, director Ron Howard and screenwriter David Koepp reunite to translate Dan Brown's pulpy page turner Inferno into a high-octane chase thriller.

It's a fruitless exercise, neatly encapsulated in one throwaway scene when Hanks' plucky symbologist recites facts about Dante's epic poem Divine Comedy and 15th-century Italian art from memory and his female sidekick cuts short his academic waffle to suggest a simpler solution, "I use Google".

Alas, brevity is not one of the film's strong points – the two-hour running time feels sluggish – and the script is muddled and lacking in full-blooded characterisation.

However, Hanks and Felicity Jones forge a pleasant on-screen partnership and their co-stars merrily chew scenery as the plot throws up various double-crosses and red herrings before the truth about this conundrum-laden quest is revealed in a montage of flashbacks.

Inferno opens with crazed scientist Bertrand Zobrist (Ben Foster) taking a backwards dive from a bell tower in Florence, thereby escaping the clutches of security forces led by Christoph Bruder (Omar Sy).

Soon after, Harvard University professor Robert Langdon (Hanks) wakes in a hospital in the same city with a gunshot wound to the head and a fractured memory.

Tense: Langdon (Tom Hanks) and Sienna (Felicity Jones)

Kind medic Dr Sienna Brooks (Jones) tends to him and when bullets fly in the corridors, she helps Langdon escape to her nearby apartment.

"I'm feeling a tad vulnerable right now," trembles Sienna. "I'm with someone who's being shot at!"

A thumbprint-encoded vial in Langdon's pocket reveals the first clue of a globe-trotting treasure hunt involving Dante's Inferno and a plague engineered by Zobrist to solve the overpopulation crisis in one bold stroke.

Working against them is Harry Sims

(Irfan Khan), head of a shadowy consortium billionaire Zobrist has engaged to protect his interests.

Sims despatches a gun-toting assassin, Vayentha (Ana Ularu), who is dressed as a Carabinieri, to prevent the professor from unravelling the mystery – "Eliminate Langdon. Fail and you will be held accountable!"

Meanwhile, old flame Elizabeth Sinskey (Sidse Babbett Knudsen), head of the World Health Organisation, is also on the fugitives' trail...

Inferno goes through the motions as Langdon and Sienna uncover hidden messages in artworks and artefacts in their attempt to avert mankind's darkest hour.

Hanks' discombobulation, courtesy of his character's head injury, is symptomatic of a messy, disjointed picture that trundles along a linear path, pausing for the occasional robust set piece.

Jones lends her unwitting heroine some spunk and Khan relishes his Machiavellian puppetmaster's antics, trying to clean up other people's messes.

Regrettably, he leaves Howard's film in disarray.

Spoilt for choice at Bolingbroke Park

Bolingbroke Park in Cockfosters offers a range of beautiful new homes. Whether a growing family that wants a spacious house with a garden; a first-time buyer looking to get a foot on the property ladder; or a downsizer who wants a hassle-free home large enough for family to visit. With 212 properties including one-, two- and three-bedroom apartments, as well as three- and four-bedroom semi-detached houses, Bolingbroke Park has something for everyone at all levels.

The development will include 52 shared ownership homes as well as 160 properties for private sale. Apartments nestled amid acres of woodland and scenic ponds start at £360,000, while first-time buyers can purchase a 25 per cent share of a home in Cornflower Court from as little as £90,000 – giving buyers the long-term security and stability of home ownership at a price that is still affordable. At the same time, the excellent rental yields of around 4.5 per cent mean that the apartments on offer are also perfect for investors.

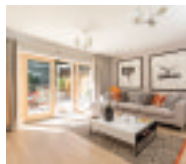

On the Piccadilly Line, linking Cockfosters to central London in just half an hour, Bolingbroke Park is the perfect choice for the busy commuter, while the nearby vast open green spaces – including 413 acre Trent Park – offer the perfect rural setting with countryside charm for families.

Arranged in attractive crescents, the development offers four-bedroom red-brick family homes available from £715,000, offering good-value space for growing families without having to leave London. The houses are arranged over three floors and draw on the Victorian architecture that is common in Cockfosters, offering modern but traditional homes. The houses also include large, private gardens with a generous terrace perfect for summer barbecues and offering plenty of outdoor space for children.

In addition to the secluded gardens and private balconies, Bolingbroke Park is set in 12 acres of landscaped green space, including onsite ponds.

Cathy Lloyd, L&Q's Sales and Marketing Director, commented: "Bolingbroke Park is a growing community with homes for a range of buyers. From families to downsizers, it offers the perfect choice for all. With the upcoming launch of Help to Buy, the development will offer even more affordable options, particularly for those looking to buy their first home in London."

It's all about the driving

By Andrew Evans

IN celebration of the 40th anniversary of the Golf GTI, Volkswagen had to find a way to make the GTI king of the hot hatch pack again – and the Clubsport S is just that.

The most powerful Golf ever available, the GTI Clubsport S is a limited-edition special that's taken the Nurburgring record for front-wheel drive production cars back to Wolfsburg.

At first glance, it's easy to mistake the GTI Clubsport S for any other Golf GTI. From the twin exhausts, to the classic red styling line through the headlights, there's not much to mark this out as something special.

Even looking at the inside won't reveal much. The classic golf ball manual gear shifter tells you it's a GTI and the part-Alcantara seats suggest performance, but otherwise it's pretty much a standard Golf.

Glance further back and you'll spot that the back seats have been replaced with a mat, a faux strut brace and a cargo net, while a build number is printed ahead of the gearstick – the only hints that something is amiss.

It's a carefully cultivated image in many respects. The Clubsport S presents itself as something of a Q-Car, shielding the true extent of its performance unless you know where to look.

The fact that the back seats are completely absent will be something of a black mark in the practicality stakes. The famously versatile hatch-back body style has had to give a little up in Volkswagen's pursuit of ultimate performance and balance.

For front-seat occupants there's no difference from the regular Golf other than the body-hugging seats.

The absence of rear seats does mean there's plenty of luggage space, should you choose to take a trip to the local DIY store. The full "seats down" boot space of the regular Golf GTI is available at all times, at 1,270 litres.

There's a luggage net dividing the boot and the rear cabin area, which would be useful for attaching your shopping (or helmet) to in order to prevent it slopping around or fetching you a snack on the head while using the car to its full potential.

With extra power from the turbocharged and supercharged 2.0-litre engine, reduced weight from stripping the rear seats and sound deadening and a Nurburgring lap record in its pocket, the Clubsport S is all about the driving.

As with all GTIs (and Golfs), it's easy to find a good driving position to enjoy the experience. The adaptive suspension comes with a number of modes that vary from Comfort to Race, but it's worth avoiding the latter unless you're on a track as it's a little firm for less pleasant road surfaces and sleeping policemen. The specification is relatively high, considering the effort Volkswagen has gone to shuck excess weight. All cars come with the Discover navigation system equipped as standard, packing in a 6.5-inch colour touchscreen with navigation and reversing camera and sensors, but to get DAB radio you'll need to upgrade to the Discover Pro system at £1,325.

Climate control isn't standard fit, but fortunately it's a no-cost option should you choose to specify it. Cruise control isn't available at all though as some of the sensors have been removed. This also means that some of the safety systems, including post-collision braking, are also not available. As it's a highly limited run model though – 150 UK cars from a 400 vehicle run in total – you're unlikely to lose much money through depreciation if you're one of the lucky UK buyers.

LLORIS HAS HIGH HOPES

By Dominique Stafford

sport.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

TOTTENHAM HOTSPUR captain Hugo Lloris insists that there is a huge hunger in the squad to maintain the level of performances which have seen them turn into real contenders for the Premier League title.

Last season saw Spurs mount a genuine title challenge for the first time in the Premier League era, before eventually fading away in the closing weeks to eventually finish third.

The side have made an equally encouraging start to the current campaign, enjoying a hugely impressive 2-0 win over table-topping Manchester City in their last outing before the current international break to leave them as the last unbeaten side in the division – just one point adrift of the leaders.

And Lloris is adamant that all of the players are determined to ensure that they keep up their impressive form in the coming weeks and months.

"In football it is a lot about belief," the France goalkeeper said. "We have some strong basics that we are building up now from the beginning of the Mauricio Pochettino [manager] era.

"I think we're improving every week, every month. Our team is still young, but there is a big appetite here, we are all hungry to get great performances.

"It's true that you need to be consistent in the league, but when you get the opportunity to play one of the top teams like City you need to enjoy it and play at your best level, like we did.

Hungry for success: Captain Hugo Lloris firmly believes that Tottenham can continue to improve

"It was also important to win before an international break, but we must remember that the season is long and we must always be humble."

However, Lloris has warned his team-mates that it is important they do not get carried away by their victory against Manchester City and has warned them that they must not get complacent.

"As long as we can keep the same mentality and spirit then we can have ambition," he added. "We have a young team with a lot of talent. We need to make sure we are not changing our minds, just being the same.

"That's why we enjoy our time at Tottenham, because the spirit is excellent. Last season we were already one of the best defences in the league, so I think it's one of our basics to be strong at the back.

"It doesn't mean we are a defensive team – we are the opposite of that. We try to have a lot of risk in our game, trying to play as high up as we can on the pitch, putting pressure, as we did especially in the first half against City.

"But we have the ability to play with different options, like we did in the second half of that match, playing a bit deeper, waiting and counter-attacking."

Haringey Borough crash out of FA Trophy at first hurdle

HARINGEY BOROUGH bowed out of the FA Trophy at the opening hurdle on Saturday with a 2-1 defeat at home to Hythe Town in the preliminary round.

The hosts struggled from the start as Hythe quickly took control of the match, with Alfie May having a shot turned behind by Haringey keeper Harry Palmer inside three minutes.

Sam Adams fired straight at Palmer and Craig Cloke's looping header was saved by the keeper at full stretch before the visitors finally got the goal they deserved on 22 minutes when May sent a deep cross into the penalty area which was headed home by Kenny Pogue.

However, Haringey responded well to this and got back on level terms within six minutes as a swift counter-attack ended with Daniel Aristidou delivering a terrific low cross which Dean Fenton turned into the net from close range.

The hosts could have taken the lead soon after when Adrian Markus fired straight at Hythe keeper Joe Mant from a good position, but it was the visitors who went back ahead on the stroke of half-time – Frankie Sawyer latching on to Adams' through-ball and firing beyond Palmer.

May squandered two good opportunities for Hythe at the start of the second half, but Borough then thought they had got back on level terms on 57 minutes when Fenton's cross was turned into the net by Markus – only for the goal to be disallowed for offside.

Pogue headed Sawyer's cross against the bar a minute later, before the visitors were denied by the woodwork for a second time when May's shot was deflected on to the post.

But Borough came agonisingly close to grabbing a second equaliser 15 minutes from time when they were also thwarted by the frame of the goal – Ralston Gabriel's fierce shot crashing against the bar.

The hosts had one last chance to snatch an equaliser, but Kwabena Asamoah's shot was deflected wide as Hythe held on for the win.

Haringey Borough return to Ryman League Division One North action with home games against Witham Town on Saturday (3pm) and AFC Hornchurch on Monday (7.45pm).

Skolars announce Wigan showdown

THE London Skolars have confirmed that they will once again take on Super League giants Wigan Warriors in the annual Capital Challenge at the start of next year.

The Skolars will face the newly crowned Super League champions at the Honourable Artillery Company ground in the city of London on January 20 as the two sides gear up for the new rugby league season.

Skolars general manager Jac Davies said: "We are delighted to announce that we'll again be taking on a Wigan Warriors side at our Capital Challenge event next January at the HAC.

"Wigan have been a great partner over the years and have really supported this initiative. I'd like to thank Ian Lenagan, Shaun Wane, Chris Radlinski and the team for their support of this event and we hope to continue that relationship into the future.

"The Capital Challenge is a fantastic event and a great way to not only promote rugby league in London but to also showcase our wonderful sport and the Skolars and Wigan clubs.

"One of the highlights of the event is the junior rugby league tag festival in the morning. The festival gives kids from across London the opportunity to play tag rugby league at the HAC and then form the guard of honour for the main game."

This year's meeting between the sides saw a young Wigan team edge to a 10-6 victory in a bruising encounter.

The event is expected to sell out quickly and tickets are available through the Skolars' website at www.skolarsrl.com
